

1. "SLORC is ruling the country by martial law ... SLORC holds all three powers, Legislative, Administrative and Judicial." 17 July 1990 radio broadcast, by Khin Nyunt, cited in Mya Maung 1991:270.
2. Piers Pigou, 2001. "Interview with the State Peace and Development Council by South African journalist Piers Pigou, conducted October 2, 2001." Burma Debate 8:2:19-24.
3. Tony Blair. Speech delivered 26 May 2006. Text taken from <http://www.number10.gov.uk/output/Page9546.asp>.
4. Francis Bacon. "Aphorismi de Jure gentium maiore sive de fontibus Justitiae et Juris" was written during James I's reign, and rediscovered in 1980 in Hardwick MS 51, Chatsworth House, Derbyshire. The text of the Aphorismi may be found (with translation and commentary) in Mark Neustadt, "The Making of the instauration: science, politics and law in the career of Francis Bacon" (Ph.D. thesis, John Hopkins University, 1987), p239-71, p249.