Dear Governors,

Welcome to Harvard Model Congress 2003 and the National Governors Association, where our nation's most influential and innovative leaders come together to set policies that will guide the states' agendas for the coming year. We are honored to work with such a bright group of statesmen, and are confident that this conference will be productive and engaging for us all.

Stephanie Kendall, a sophomore government concentrator, is a veteran of Special Programs, and helped direct the Party Leadership Program at HMC 2002. She comes from the crossroads of America—Chesterton, Indiana.

Jessica Diaz is a joint-concentrator in government and psychology. While she promises to be nonpartisan this weekend, this sophomore is a political junkie from an ultra-liberal pocket of California’s wine country.

Lastly, Sam King is a junior who has majored in everything from biochemical sciences, neurobiology, to even German before he settled on economics at the beginning of the year. He hails from Berkeley, California and participates in HMCE as well as Army ROTC.

As state leaders, you are responsible for the vast majority of the policy-making that affects people's everyday lives. We are looking forward to four days of interesting debate, an exchange of ideas, and memorable experiences. We hope you enjoy this session of the National Governors Association!

Sincerely,

Jessica Diaz
Stephanie Kendall
Sam King

Dear Governors,

Welcome to Harvard Model Congress 2003 and the National Governors Association, where our nation’s most influential and innovative leaders come together to set policies that will guide the states’ agendas for the coming year. We are honored to work with such a bright group of statesmen, and are confident that this conference will be productive and engaging for us all.

Stephanie Kendall, a sophomore government concentrator, is a veteran of Special Programs, and helped direct the Party Leadership Program at HMC 2002. She comes from the crossroads of America—Chesterton, Indiana.

Jessica Diaz is a joint-concentrator in government and psychology. While she promises to be nonpartisan this weekend, this sophomore is a political junkie from an ultra-liberal pocket of California’s wine country.

Lastly, Sam King is a junior who has majored in everything from biochemical sciences, neurobiology, to even German before he settled on economics at the beginning of the year. He hails from Berkeley, California and participates in HMCE as well as Army ROTC.

As state leaders, you are responsible for the vast majority of the policy-making that affects people's everyday lives. We are looking forward to four days of interesting debate, an exchange of ideas, and memorable experiences. We hope you enjoy this session of the National Governors Association!

Sincerely,

Jessica Diaz
Stephanie Kendall
Sam King

Jessica Diaz
109 Lowell Mail Center
Cambridge, MA 02138
diaz@fas.harvard.edu

Stephanie Kendall
479 Kirkland Mail Center
Cambridge, MA 02138
skendall@fas.harvard.edu

Sam King
280 Dunster Mail Center
Cambridge, MA 02138
sking@fas.harvard.edu