Call for Papers

for the 2nd Annual Undergraduate Linguistics Colloquium at Harvard on the Harvard University campus, Cambridge, Massachusetts

The colloquium has been initiated with the goal of developing an intercollegiate community of linguistics enthusiasts at the undergraduate level. In keeping with this broad aim, the conference is open to all interested students regardless of area of interest or level of training. Professor Norbert Hornstein of the University of Maryland will be featured as our keynote speaker, and undergraduates will also have the opportunity to present their own research. Student submissions are encouraged in a range of linguistic disciplines including, but not limited to, syntax, phonology, historical linguistics, sociolinguistics, and psycholinguistics.

Undergraduates of all levels of expertise are invited to submit 1-page abstracts proposing a roundtable discussion or a talk of not more than twenty minutes. (All participants must be pursuing a B.A., B.S., or equivalent degree.)

Abstracts are to be directed to:

E-mailed abstracts (and questions!) will also be accepted at:

nicola@fas.harvard.edu

The final deadline for receipt of all submissions is March 12, 2004.

We look forward to your contributions, and we hope to see you in April!
